DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on November 3, 2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The amendment overcomes the claim rejections made in the last Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12, 13, 15-17, 28, and 31-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Verhoef et al. (US 6,843,435).

With regard to claim 12, Verhoef discloses a grinding machine with substantially all of the claimed structure including:

Art Unit: 3725

1. a grinding drum (160) positioned within a mill box (154) having opposite sides (155);
2. the grinding drum (160) having an axis of rotation (axis of 171);
3. an anvil (182) having a cross-section, the cross-section including a wedge-shaped portion and a rectangular portion (Figure 3);
4. the wedge-shaped (182) portion having a tapering surface extending from a first reference point (closest to 171) to a second reference point (farthest from 171); and
5. the ends of the anvil (182) extending beyond (Figure 5a) the sides (155) of the mill box (154).

With regard to claims 13, 28, 34, and 37, Verhoef discloses an anvil (182) of solid construction (Figure 3) without weakening structure. The top tapering surface of the wedge portion receives the impacts of perpendicular forces generated by the grinding drum. See Figure 3.

With regard to claims 15-17 and 31-33, Verhoef discloses a mounting arrangement including a first support surface configured to support an end of a feed table (112) and a second support surface configured to support the anvil (182) from the outside of the mill box (154). See Figure 1.

With regard to claim 35, Verhoef discloses that a portion of the distance between the first reference point (closest to 171) and the axis of rotation (171) defines a minimum clearance.

With regard to claim 36, Verhoef discloses a first and second reference points aligned horizontally (Figure 3).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 14 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Verhoef et al. (US 6,843,435) in view of Zehr (US 2002/0056773). The claims call for clamp arms (60) to secure the ends of the anvil when positioned within the apertures (Figure 3). In a closely related art, Zehr discloses a grinding machine with clamp arms in order to secure the ends of the anvil when positioned within the apertures. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to provide Verhoef with clamp arms in order to secure the ends of the anvil when positioned within the apertures, as taught by Zehr.

Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Verhoef et al. (US 6,843,435) in view of Hadjinian et al. (US 5,881,959). The claim calls for a shape of the anvil to be such that a minimum clearance is defined between the rectangular portion and the drum. In a closely related art, Hadjinian discloses a grinding machine with a shape of the anvil to be such that a minimum clearance is defined between the rectangular portion (17) and the drum (18) in order to resist deflection

(Figure 6). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to provide Verhoef with a shape of the anvil to be such that a minimum clearance is defined between the rectangular portion and the drum in order to resist deflection, as taught by Hadjinian.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
